About Us

OPS-Services are independent investigators & technical surveillance specialist. We provide consultancy services to existing investigators and security agencies across the UK.

OPS-Services provide support to security companies through the application of technical surveillance and as experienced installers ourselves we are able to install alarms and complete CCTV systems in almost any environment.

Our roots, we were born through experience gained in covert scenarios whilst serving in the Armed Forces across the globe. The investigation techniques are as valuable now as they were when we first began training but with the advent of modern technology we are able to greatly hone our skills and improve the quality of evidence gained.

Our clients, As mentioned above, our clients range from existing professionals who require the technical support, to celebrities, the general public, commercial entities the FA and HM Prison services. Please browse our website to see our solutions on offer and how they can benefit your organisation.

Company Director - Mr J Dudhill

Served for 22 years with the British military, spending the majority on operational tours deploying covert technical surveillance for Special Forces.

OPS-Services Ltd formed in early 2004 and achieved limited company status in 2006. During this time OPS-Services Ltd has gained a reputation for professionalism, accuracy and quality of service provided.

Case Studies

HM Prison service: - We deployed surveillance sensors into HM Prison premises. These sensors cover areas day and night which are not protected by their existing technology. Now proven in many establishments, please call for details.

Retail loss prevention: - Experienced in gathering evidence for popular high street retail stores, through the use of covert cameras and digital recorders where we have obtained undeniable proof of internal theft saving companies considerable revenue.

Property protection: - Our bespoke security systems have been used for the protection of many properties, ranging from large commercial property to celebrity home security. With the integration of CCTV and alarms.

Industrial: - We were requested to perform counter surveillance sweeps on an FTSE 100 company at their Swiss Headquarters in Zurich. We successfully declared the building safe removing all doubt of interior surveillance bugs and equipment and provided a conclusive report of recommendations.

Celebrity: - OPS-Services were called to deploy perimeter security to prevent the press and fans gaining entry to a prominent English footballers wedding ceremony. In collaboration with security on the ground, we were successful in ensuring not only the protection of the celebrity but also safeguarding its photography contract with a leading magazine.

Commercial: - A large haulage firm contacted OPS-Services Ltd when it became apparent internal theft was the only explanation for recent company losses.

OPS-Services Ltd deployed covert cameras onto the equipment known to be of interest to the thieves. Footage was gathered giving undeniable evidence of those committing unlawful activity.

Personal: (neighbourhood dispute) A client came to OPS-Services Ltd asking us to install CCTV on their premises as they were suffering racial abuse and vandalism to their property.

We decided not to antagonise the neighbours by installing CCTV. Instead we deployed covert cameras and audio equipment to gather evidence for presentation to the local council and police.

Personal: - OPS Services Ltd was contacted for advice regarding a family friend and regular baby sitter. We deployed a covert camera and audible system into their property. The imagery showed that the baby sitter was mature and responsible and that their fears were unfounded.

They now have peace of mind whenever they leave their property and children.

Investigators: Professional covert surveillance companies/Investigators who require a technical surveillance solution receive the best service available. We have worked with many specialist investigators providing them with a full technical investigation package.

Hidden cameras, audio, trackers, electronic sweeps, body & vehicle fits are available.

Conservation: - Deployment of cameras onto protected bird sites. The images from these wireless cameras were transmitted onto a large screen in the Hawk Conservation Centre Andover; this added another attraction to the conservancy, increasing revenue.

CCTV & Alarm Systems

No matter what system you are considering, alarm or CCTV you want to ensure it's of the highest quality and will remain reliable and be of use when needed. Having qualified and knowledgeable installers makes all the difference!

All OPS-Services Ltd Video Security Systems begin with CCTV cameras. The images you view and record will only be as good as the images produced by your CCTV cameras.

Choosing the right equipment for every scenario is a skill within itself. It is important to use the right lens for the light conditions and desired field of view; otherwise the images seen and recorded will not be satisfactory. That's why you call us!

All our security cameras are of excellent specification, coupled with very competitive costing. Contact us today for an informal chat or to discuss your needs further.

Covert Surveillance

We conduct surveillance and counter surveillance with the use of high quality equipment.

When using covert surveillance equipment for any form of investigation, you only have one chance of achieving the right result if the equipment is found then the operation is compromised.

Our technical surveillance installer and director of OPS-Services Ltd has many years of experience in the deployment of covert surveillance equipment gained on operations during service in the British military, where the compromise of equipment was not an option.

Also qualified in the deployment of CCTV and alarm systems which gives an in depth knowledge allowing covert systems to be integrated with overt systems.

After an in-depth security analysis we install audio recording devices, cameras/digital recorders and specialised sensors to suit your security requirements. We can install in places of no power, in the past we have monitored quarries and cliffs!
